

The Center for Integrative Studies in General Science has again arranged to have DPS provide an Emergency Training session to take place on Monday, August 19, from 1:30-3:00 in room 105 South Kedzie. The session is available to all NatSci faculty, staff, and graduate students, and will cover topics including Emergency Action Plans (EAP) and Emergency Action Teams (EAT), “Types” of emergencies requiring action, Reporting an Emergency, Emergency communications, Staying prepared, and Active Violence (brief). In addition, Nicole Ziegler (DPS Operations Coordinator) can respond to any questions participants might have about any potential emergency situation. Faculty, staff, and graduate students who have attended the session in the past have indicated that it was very worthwhile. No registration is required. For those who prefer to join via zoom, this event will be streamed as a Webinar using the following:

Topic: NatSci Emergency Training

Please click the link below to join the webinar:

<https://msu.zoom.us/j/94377382830>

Passcode: MSUDPS

We regret that this session will not be recorded for future viewing, per DPS.